Five student researchers at Queen's University will receive the prestigious Vanier Canada Graduate Scholarships today.

Kellie Leitch, the parliamentary secretary to the Minister of Human Resources and Skills Development and the Minister of Labour, will award the students with $50,000 each for the next three years, so that they can continue their studies in natural sciences and engineering, social sciences and humanities and health sciences at Queen's.

The newest Vanier Scholars are Emma Dargie (Psychology), Jay Jantz (Neuroscience), Yingli Rao (Chemistry), Shane McIntosh (School of Computing) and Kerri Froc (Law).

The recognition event is being held at 9:45 a.m. in the Queen's Cancer Research Institute and will include a tour of the Magnetic Resonance Imaging lab.
